SCHOOL LEADERS ATTEND ADMINISTRATOR IN THE WORKPLACE
POTTSVILLE, Pa.—11 leaders from 5 Schuylkill County districts participated in the first Administrator in the Workplace, sponsored by the Northeast Pennsylvania Manufacturers and Employers Council, Inc., in conjunction with SEDCO.

The purpose of the day was to provide school superintendents and principals with a better understanding of the businesses and industries in the region, and the skills required for jobs within those industries. The day included tours of Walmart DC 7030, Wegmans DC, and Jeld-Wen Windows and Doors, all located in the Highridge Business Park.

According to Darlene J. Robbins, president of the Council, the day was an informative experience for the educators. “During the tours it was evident of the rapidly changing workplace and the implications for preparation of students who already are or soon will be entering it. Questions about average salaries and the skills required were among the valuable discussions,” Robbins said.

Participants included: Jim Ketner and Kevin Berger, Blue Mountain; Anthony Crimaldi, Mary Lou Renninger, Joie Green, and Brandy Mahal, Mahanoy Area; Charlotte Golden and Melissa Mekosh, Pine Grove; Michael Maley, Saint Clair, and Lorraine Felker and Andrew Netznik, Schuylkill Haven Area.

The Council is planning to make Administrator in the Workplace an annual event. For more information on the Council’s programs, please call 570-622-0940.
